I have some questions regarding this bill.

Would this preclude candidates from using foreign-owned stations like Fox News and RT from giving interviews of the candidates (AKA: free advertising) to be broadcast on US airwaves?

How is "foreign" defined regarding multi-national and international corporations?

Could you be endorsed and given campaign donations from a local car dealer that sells Toyotas for instance or will that not be allowed? Where do you draw the line?

If you really want to keep dollars out of politics, make all elections in the state, funded by state tax dollars. Put a cap of say $2000 max to be raised by individual donors (or about the same amount of money needed to get your name in the race). That way politicians are more likely to work for all of their constituents and not just their largest donors.
