

ROSEMARY KAHOLOKULA replied (Mon, 27 Aug at 6:22 AM) to : pdc@pdc.wa.gov , cc : kaholokula@comcast.net

Monday, 8/13: My campaign post was shared by Skagit Breaking pursuant to an advertising contract I have with them. If an individual clicked on this post then they would be taken to my Facebook campaign page. Payment for this advertising was reported on the amended C-4 filed 6/5/18.

Tuesday, 8/14: I was made aware of the potential PDC violation around noon - 1 p.m. I was not made aware of specifically what the PDC complaint was. I immediately called the PDC and left messages requesting a call back. I also emailed Mr. Fox Blackhorn with the PDC. Late in the day I spoke with Scott Haley from the PDC. He told me I should email him what the issue was and he would speak with others in his office.

Wednesday, 8/15:

In the afternoon, I received an email from Mr. Fox Blackhorn. He indicated that no complaint had been received and “no evidence has been presented to suggest that Skagit Breaking’s advertising would violate any PDC laws or rules, provided Sponsor ID is located one-click away . . .”

Thursday, 8/16:

I replied to Mr. Blackhorn’s email seeking clarification on whether “sponsor ID is located 1-click away” meant that 1-click took a person directly to my campaign page. I still wasn’t clear on whether I was in compliance or not since a click on the ad did take a person to my campaign page. He replied back by sending information from your written materials.

Late in the day I received an email from Scott Haley. He did indicate that an ad needed to state who was paying for the ad, including sponsor address. I still wasn’t clear on what I needed to do in terms of the shared posts and so requested a telephone call the following day.

Friday, 8/17:

I spoke with Mr. Haley and his supervisor Kim Hadley on conference call. Regarding the shared post, Ms. Hadley advised me of several ways that the ad could become compliant with the PDC. The method that I chose is to put on my Facebook campaign page that all political advertising is paid for by the committee to elect Rosemary Kaholokula, P.O. Box 533, Mount Vernon, WA, 98273. I was told that this would comply with the "1-click" rule. I then immediately called the person responsible for my campaign page to make this change. That change was made within 30 minutes of that call. I verified with Mr. Haley that this change brought my ad into compliance.

Finally, I did not amend the C-3 and/or C-4 because the expenditure was properly reported on the amended C-4 filed 6/5/18.