Danielle Franco-Malone is filing this complaint on behalf of Maralyn Chase for Senate 2018 as the legal representative.

What impact does the alleged violation(s) have on the public?

Stand for Children's apparent false identification in the Facebook ads seriously harms the public's ability to follow the money, and to determine who is behind the efforts to elect Jesse Salomon. The laws regulating the reporting of campaign contributions serve a critical role in promoting transparency and ethical conduct in our elections. The Respondent's disregard for these laws shows an unacceptable lack of commitment to the principles our campaign finance laws are designed to uphold. Last minute untraceable money poured into races, like that used to fund the ad at issue, are at the core of what our campaign finance laws are designed to protect against, sowing confusion and misinformation with no time to meaningfully fix the damage that has been caused before the election has already occurred.
